The Growing Responsibility of Labor

Significant of the change taking place in the minds of people as to the proper relationship which should exist between the individual and the public, or, perhaps, it would be more correct to say between the citizen and the State, is a decision of far-reaching importance recently arrived at by the Amalgamated Postal Workers' Association in convention assembled at Edmonton.

By an overwhelming majority the convention decided to delete from its bylaws the clause allowing members to join in sympathetic strikes. It will be recalled that two years ago the business of many Western cities was crippled and all but demoralized through strikes of post office employees, and that, as a result of congestion of mails, the whole country was put to inconvenience and loss. Again, last year, in the big Winnipeg strike the same thing occurred, notwithstanding that these employees were sworn servants of the State honorably bound to conduct the King's business no matter what might happen.

Now, however, the postal workers have by their own action declared that they will not countenance actions which bring inconvenience and suffering to all the people who are quite guiltless of having inflicted any injustice upon the workers and who are, as individuals, helpless to right wrongs and remove grievances which may exist. At the same time, and properly so, the Postal Workers' Association emphasized their determination to employ all legitimate and legal means at their disposal to uphold the dignity of their organization and secure betterments in wages, hours of service, and working conditions generally.

This action on the part of one important group of organized workers sounds the deathknell of the One Big Union plan of organization in this Dominion. The carrying out of the sinister plans of the O. B. U. is only possible, as its very name implies, by the banding together of workers in all walks of life in one big, overpowering organization which, by reason of its strength, and acting under orders from one central head, could defy all law, Governments and society in general. Unless all organized workers join the O. B. U. it cannot succeed. Should it succeed the workers themselves would, in the long run, be the greatest sufferers.

The right of all workers to organize for their self-protection, and in order to enable them to bargain efficiently with employers as to wages, hours of labor, and the conditions under which they are called upon to work, is now universally recognized. It is officially accepted in the labor clauses of the League of Nations covenant. But such recognition does not carry with it acceptance of the doctrine that a whole nation can be "held up" and denied the modern necessities of community existence unless any and every demand made is immediately and fully granted.

The strike weapon is an obsolete instrument for the redress of grievances. It is a two-edged sword, and inflicts as much, if not more, injury upon those who use it as upon those against whom it is directed. Methods of conciliation, negotiations looking to a compromise fair to all parties, the establishment of courts of arbitration, are not only a fairer but a much less costly way of arriving at a settlement of industrial disputes, just as they have been recognized in the League of Nations as the proper and Christian way of dealing with international differences.

Might does not constitute right. It never did; it never will, and they who resort to force are always liable to find themselves overcome by force. The strength of organized labor lies in the sympathy and support of the people generally, and when Labor resorts to any action which alienates public sympathy and support it ruins its own cause. The individual is no longer allowed to take the law into his own hands to adjust personal grievances against another individual. If he does, he finds himself in the clutches of that law which was created for his protection and which he ignored and failed to appeal to for redress. What the individual cannot do, organized bodies of individuals cannot be allowed to do.

In this age there should be established properly constituted courts for the adjustment of all industrial disputes, in whom all parties can have confidence, just as other courts have been established for the protection of individual and property rights of all kinds. It is a hopeful sign that organized workers, as represented by the Amalgamated Postal Workers' Association and certain other labor unions, are coming to recognize this fact. They will find the people supporting them, and their influence will be all the greater in future.

Some Mennonites Going to Abitibi

Bishops Will Endeavor to Establish Colony in Quebec

Leaders of the orthodox Mennonite church at Rhineland have decided to take their people to Abitibi, Que., and establish a colony there, Mr. J. F. Greenway, deputy minister of education, Winnipeg, has announced.

Mr. Greenway, who returned from a trip to Rhineland, where he organized public school districts, said he had the authority of one of the church elders, who was a member of the delegation which recently waited on Premier Taschereau, of Quebec, for his statement.

The impression prevails, said Mr. Greenway, that the exodus would split the church. Some will follow the bishop and elders, and others will remain in Manitoba. He had no information in regard to the probable number to go.

Pulpwood in Manitoba.

Pulp resources in Northeastern Manitoba will remain undeveloped until means of transportation are established, F. H. He reports a good quality of spruce is found which would make excellent pulp, but there is no outlet for the finished product, the rivers being unnavigable except by canoe.

Local Happenings

BORN to Mr. and Mrs. M. Earl at Monitor, an Sept 14th a daughter.

Owing to the time of the year only a medium crowd assembled to hear the "Maple Leafs" in the Big Hall last Tuesday. The show its self was passable, but we imagine the title "burlesque" would have fitted the act better than "Musical Revue" for of music there was nil, save on the piano. The female impersonators were decidedly good until they attempted to sing in falsetto, and then the false set on them was decidedly prominent. Undoubtedly "Shorty" (we dont know his name) was the saving quality of the show, for without his gymnastic and juggling propensities, and his monologues with Rastus, the show would have fallen decidedly flat However, we shouldnt kick, for even that is better than the dull monotony of nothing. "They're a bunch of bad ones," said Smythe; "a regular band of cut-throats. They know no law and they hold life as cheap as water. Big McTavish has incited the others against you. They swear they will kill you if you set foot on Bushwhackers Place."

"I'm not anxious to set foot onto Bushwhackers' Place providing I can secure the timber through an agent. But the timber I must have. I gave Watson money with which to start the ball rolling. Maybe I'll see that money again and maybe I won't. As I said before, I don't trust either you or Watson very far. But both of you know me."

"We will do our very utmost to get the timber," said Smythe; and as the Colonel turned toward him he added, "for you."

"It might be a good idea," said Hallibut. "As for those Bushwhackers, I'm not caring a cent what they think of me. I tried to show them that I was interested in their welfare by building that schoolhouse, that they might educate their children, and by giving it to them—it and the land it stands on. I've hired young Simpson to teach the school, or you did with my money, which amounts to the same, and after all this you say the Bushwhackers want to kill me. Grateful, aren't they?"

"If you hadn't built that mill after you had got possession of the timber —" faltered Smythe; but the Colonel interrupted him.

"See here, I built that mill on my own land, didn't I? Surely I don't have to ask permission from anybody else when I want to do anything with my own."

"I was merely going to say that the mill has driven the fur-bearing animals out of the creek," smiled Smythe. "The Bushwhackers say you have spoiled the best trapping, sir."

"Well, I'm sorry for that; but my intentions were good. I looked upon those people as a simple-hearted lot of men and women whose friendship was worth the winning. It's funny—me wanting friends at my age. But I'm getting old and fanciful, I guess."

Smythe scratched his chin and squinted along the beak-like nose as though he were aiming the remark at a crack in the floor, as he said:

"They're not particular about having the trees cut down. They live mostly by shooting and trapping. But I do know that two thousand acres of walnut, beech, and hickory is worth a fortune to somebody."

"Humph! And how long have you known that? Seems queer to me that you and Watson haven't tried to corner this timber for yourselves."

The storekeeper lifted his hands.

"Surely you know us better than that," he protested.

"I know dogs better than I do men," said Hallibut, "and I trust dogs. I've never seen many men that I could trust. It was a man stole the best thing I ever had in life."

"Ah," Mr. Smythe rubbed his hands together and smiled," a woman."

Hallibut looked at him, an expression of disgust on his face.

"Yes, but not the kind of woman you know. This one was my sister."

"Just so," smiled the grocer; and then he whispered again, "just so."

"Did you or Watson tell the Bushwhackers what I intend to do with the boat?" asked Hallibut after a little time had elapsed.

"Yes, and they say that as soon as you try and put your schooner up Lee Creek there will be trouble. They told Watson to tell you so," said Smythe.

"So they warn me, eh?"

Hallibut left his chair and paced up and down the floor.

Smythe sat with a smile of satisfaction on his weasel-like face.

"Of course, they can't stop you from entering the harbor and sailing across Rond Eau; neither can they prevent you from sailing up the creek. But," he added impressively, "they can burn your boat."

"Don't talk foolishness," cried Hallibut. "They aren't quite crazy. If they tried anything like that on with me, I'd wipe 'em out; you hear me —wipe the whole bunch of 'em out."

"I think Mr. Watson and I may make some amicable arrangements with the misguided people," said Smythe.

"Well, see that you do. Neither of you are honest, and you should make a success of any job that requires underhand work. But this is a straight, fair, and square offer. See that you make the Bushwhackers understand that I want to treat them squarely."

He sat down and gazed across at Smythe. Slowly the purple died in his face, and he relighted his pipe and smoked it thoughtfully.

"It's hard to understand some men," he said "—mighty hard. But then it's mighty hard to understand some dogs, too. I've seen dogs, and owned 'em, intelligent enough to understand most everything I said to them. But somehow I never got to know their language. Still I'm called a dog's superior. – Strange, isn't it? Now, your friend Watson reminds me of a dog that would wag and fawn all he could out of you."

He nodded his great head slowly and sent a cloud of smoke ceilingward.

"As the case stands, I've trusted him with my money. The question is, will he play square?"

Mr. Smythe opened his milk-blue eyes wide.

"Oh, you may trust him, my dear Colonel," he said earnestly. "Mr. Watson, Sir, is an honest servant; a faithful Christian."

"Humph, think so? Well, maybe you're right. I'm not feeling exactly like myself tonight, Smythe, and I'm fanciful, I guess. The fellow who's rigging my schooner told me a story this morning—not a nice story, either —and I've been thinking ever since about a poor woman who died with not a single friend near her. Here's the sailor's story:

"A man by the name of Watts, who was supposed to be a ferryman, lived on the Detroit River somewhere near Sandwich. A crippled sister kept house for him, and he, according to report, was a bad one all round. One night he brought across from the American side a woman and her baby. They had come a long distance, it seems, and the woman was sick—in fact, she was dying. This Watts saw she had money, and he took her to his home, where she died that very night. Before the end came she consigned the baby to the care of Watts and obtained a promise from him that he would try and find a man—the sailor couldn't remember the name—and place the baby, along with a certain parcel she was carrying, with him."

Smythe laughed uneasily.

"That was a pretty big contract for Watts to take on."

"Of course, he never intended to keep it," said Hallibut. "She gave him money with which to seek out her friends. The sailor says he put it in his pocket and let the County bury the poor woman."

"And the baby?" queried Smythe, his face twitching.

"I'm coming to that. It seems this Watts' hunchback sister was a good woman at heart. She wanted to keep the baby. But he sent the child away into the forest with an Indian on a wildgoose chase and kept the parcel."

Smythe made five dots on the paper before him.

"What was in the parcel?" he asked, wiping his eyes.

"The sailor didn't know, but it was reported to be money. You'll make me wish I hadn't told you this harrowing story, Smythe."

"Poor mother; poor little orphan," sighed the storekeeper.

The Colonel stared at him.

"Did I say that the baby's father had died?" he asked. "You're right though, its father was dead. The woman told Watts as much."

Hallibut arose and stretched his long arms. He was a man far past middle age, with iron-gray hair, a large face, and deep, kindly eyes. He stood over six-foot-two, was broad of shoulder, and straight as an arrow.

Odessa Best Black Sea Port.

The harbor of Odessa, in South Russia, is formed by several stone piers and a long breakwater and is protected in every direction. It is the only port in Southern Russia where ships drawing thirty feet can come directly to the docks and the docks are larger and better equipped than those of any other Black Sea port. ## Iron Shutters Cause Riots

Protection For Shops In Near East Source Of Trouble.

Iron shutters have probably caused more riots, massacres and pogroms in the Levant than political agitators. All shops in the Near East are provided with rolling iron shutters which work in iron grooves. When they are banged down they make as much noise as a machine-gun. Every time there is rumor of any sort of trouble some timid merchant slams down his shutters to protect his plate glass. Without investigating the cause, other merchants follow instantly with such a clatter that the public becomes panicky and rushes about trying to discover the cause of the flurry.

At such moments, excited crowds will credit any rumor which is put into circulation. Pickpockets avail themselves of such opportunities. Soapbox orators, street fakirs and magicians gather crowds by this device. In any Turkish city the circulation of a rumor that a movement is to be started against Christians will cause all the Armenians and Greek shops to close within a few minutes, and frequently the noisy closing of the shops fans the religious hatred of the Moslems into action.

FREQUENT HEADACHES

A Sure Sign That the Blood is Watery and Impure.

People with thin blood are much more subject to headaches than full-blooded persons and the form of anaemia that afflicts growing girls is almost always accompanied by headaches, together with disturbance of the digestive organs.

Whenever you have constant or recurring headaches and pallor of the face, they show that the blood is thin and your efforts should be directed toward building up your blood A fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do this effectively, and the rich red blood made by these pills will remove the headache.

More disturbances to the health are caused by their blood than most people have any idea of. When your blood is impoverished, the nerves suffer from lack of nourishment, and you may be troubled with insomnia, neurities, neuralgia or sciatica. Muscles subject to strain are undernourished and you may have muscular rheumatism or lumbago. If your blood is thin and you begin to show symptoms of any of these disorders, try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as the blood is restored to its normal condition every symptom of the trouble will disappear. There are more people who owe their present state of good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than to any other medicine, and most of them do not hesitate to say so.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Care of Machinery

Implements Kept in Repair Give More Satisfactory Service.

Do not merely go through the motion but shelter machinery considerately, and before doing so, first list the repairs needed for next season and secure them along with an assortment of bolts, rivets, springs, etc. in time to have each implement repaired and ready for use on time. An implement in repair at all times will have a longer life and will give more satisfactory service during its life than one receiving irregular attention. Secondly, clean and oil each machine and give all polished surfaces an application of some anti-rust preparation. Axle grease or other lubricant will answer the purpose.

Lifeboats to Protect The Shipwrecked

New Life Raft Supplied With Artificial Heat.

The drawback to most of the existing forms of lifeboats or life-saving rafts is that the occupants are exposed to wind and sea, being drenched with spray in bad weather and having no means of warming or drying themselves. The invention of a Hull man bids fair to overcome this danger, as in his life-raft the shipwrecked are completely protected from the elements, and are plentifully supplied with air, and, if necessary, with artificial heat. Hitherto the chief difficulty has been to admit air into enclosed floating chambers while keeping out water in a rough sea, but this problem has been solved by an ingeniously contrived wire trap-door in the top of each chamber. In the full-sized raft it is proposed to make each tank eight feet square, giving accommodation for 25 persons, and provision for a wireless installation is to be made, where this is thought advisable. Ample room would be available for heating apparatus and for stores of food and drink.

The Oil for the Farmer.—A bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup, and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle. There should always be a bottle of it in the house.

Norwegian fishermen are adopting the telephone to warn them when great numbers of fish are about. The submarine war has taught them the value of the telephone. "The run to the Fraser, while comparatively small, is considerably larger than was anticipated," he continued, "but this river can never be brought back to its maximum of productivity until some international agreement for its protection has been consummated."
